TRAIN-AUTO CRASH FATAL AT LACOMBE

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The United States minister in Addis Ababa made an urgent appeal to the state department today to request assistance of the British government in holding the American legation against Ethiopian rioters.

GIBRALTAR, May 4.—Great Britain's 20th destroyer flotilla, consisting of eight warships now at Gibraltar, will leave shortly for the eastern waters of the Mediterranean, naval authorities announced today. The vessels will join the commander-in-chief of the British Mediterranean fleet.

ADDIS ABABA, May 4.—By wireless from the French Legation—Twenty-one foreigners were killed here Sunday by rioting Ethiopians, nearly all of them Armenian or Greek merchants who attempted to defend their stores against looters.

ADDIS ABABA, May 4.—(By the Associated Press and other American correspondents collaborating in use of limited wire facilities)—Fire, pillaging, murder and anarchy raged in governmental Addis Ababa Sunday. The lofty capital from which Emperor Haile Selassie and his family fled Saturday was a ghastly wreck.

In the centre of town, streets were strewn with corpses. Bodies were counted on one of the main streets and the mutilated casualties were uncountable.

The first reported fatality among foreigners was Mrs. N. A. Stadin, wife of an American missionary, who was killed by a bullet fired from the balcony of the Seventh Day Adventist mission where she was sleeping.

TO RAZE CITY
A great portion of the population was pillaging, firing and even burning, determined to reach safety before the arrival of the Italian forces.

A definite reaction set in, however, after the wild orgy of Saturday. A definite reaction set in, however, after the wild orgy of Saturday. A definite reaction set in, however, after the wild orgy of Saturday.

DJIBOUTI, French Somaliland, May 4.—Emperor Haile Selassie and his family reached the sanctuary of French soil and a British destroyer Sunday after a precipitate flight from the capital of his crumbling empire.

The Negus, now an exile, planned to board the destroyer sent here by the British government and to sail shortly for Haifa, Palestine.

Refusing to make a declaration as to his intentions, the Emperor—appearing very thin and tired—expressed the French government by newspapermen from the railroad.

BLOWS EXCHANGED
An Italian who attempted to photograph the Negus was prevented by Ethiopians and several blows were exchanged. The incident took place in front of the Ethiopian consulate.

Several Italian newspapermen and secretaries of the Italian legation, who were in the vicinity, also were involved in the scuffle.

TRAIN LATE
Several ministers and a number of other officials accompanied the Negus. The train arrived 20 minutes late. Among officials to greet the imperial family were the French governor and his staff of officers in great numbers.

EMPEROR MEN
The Emperor Menen was the first to get off the train, followed by Haile Selassie and Crown Prince Asfaw Wocan, but neither Prince Menen nor the little princess were seen. The Emperor was heavily veiled and appeared to be overcome by emotion.

The small crowd at the station was attracted to the boiling heat, which kept most of the population indoors. A company of Senegalese troops formed a guard of honor, their rifles fixed to the Emperor's train.

SALUTED BY TROOPS
After leaving the railroad station the imperial family rode to the Governor's palace. There they were saluted by troops. A double line of Senegalese sharpshooters was drawn up outside the entrance.

By then a large crowd had gathered, saluting the Emperor's train. The Governor's palace and many natives opened their doors when Haile Selassie appeared. Others cheered.

DESTROYER ARRIVES
Accompanied by a company of Senegalese troops, the British destroyer arrived Sunday morning from Aden.

The imperial family were served luncheon at the Governor's palace in strict seclusion.

It was understood the family would remain for the night at the Governor's palace and embark on the destroyer early Monday.

C.N. STEAMER SINKS AT SEA; CREW RESCUED

Canadian Planter in Collision With Another Vessel in Fog

VINEYARD HAVEN, Mass., May 4.—The Canadian National freighter Canadiana, which ran aground on the floor of the Atlantic today, probably a total loss, after colliding off her early Sunday with the freighter City of Auckland.

Through quick action by the crews of both vessels, there was no loss of life.

CREW TOOK TO BOATS
The planter's crew of Canadians took to the lifeboats soon after the crash. Despite the heavy fog which hung heavily over the sea that fortunately was calm, the City of Auckland was able to take aboard the planter's men, numbering around 30.

One man, believed to have been a cook aboard the Canadian boat, was reported as having been injured. He was transferred to the United States coast guard cutter, Majors, which answered the call for help sent out by the Auckland.

RECENTLY SOLD
The planter, one of 10 Canadian government merchant marine freighters recently sold to the new Dominion-Australian-New Zealand line, was on the last leg of a run from Australia. She was to have been two-night flight from the coast of New Zealand.

For this reason, it appeared the Canadian government was the owner through the collection.

NEW WENDEL CASE TIE-UP
BROOKLYN, May 4.—District Attorney William F. X. Grogan, apparently pleased with his progress in the Paul H. Wendel kidnapping case, said Saturday he expects "to tie up with the case a very important link in the chain of events."

The man he indicated might be the late John J. Grogan, Jr., of the County, N.J., detective chief, whose son, Ellis H. Parker, Jr., is one of the persons indicted for the kidnapping.

"I have evidence," Grogan said, "that Parker, Sr., was here in New York at the time of the kidnapping of Wendel."

BENEFIT SEEN FROM BUDGET
NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., May 4.—John A. Grant, vice-president and general manager of the James Barclay & Co., distilling company here, said Sunday a healthier consumption for Canadian distilleries and increased demand for grapes will follow reduction of the excise duty on Canadian brandy from 44 to 34 gallons as announced in the budget.

At a conference which was so lately Schacht remained for lunch with Hitler for the first time in months, the Nazi dictator and his economic expert joined out their differences.

THE BUDGET

The Minister of Finance hopes that a deficit from now on will be able to announce a deficit of "something less than $100,000,000" in the accounts of the Government for 1935-36. The purpose there will have to be a gain of $20,000,000 or more over the showing for the past year.

To that end he proposes to collect additional revenue amounting to $100,000,000 through new measures of direct taxation. The remainder is to be sought by modifying the protective features of the tariff and by cutting down the expenditure upon which customs duties can be collected.

No suggestion is made that it would be possible to bridge the gap by slashing expenditure and calling upon the public for further belt-tightening. In that respect the budget will be highly displeasing to many quarters where budget-balancing has been most warmly urged, in expectation that the principle would be done by the method of reducing expenditure.

It is not the cutting down of the tariff on 104 lines of goods, and the diversion into the federal treasury of part of the tariff profits hitherto gathered by itself.

No more will the general public welcome the addition of 2 per cent to the tax collected at the source and added to the price of goods, it will not arouse the hostility as abundantly in evidence against the income-tax levied by the Government of Alberta.

In its essential object the budget conforms to the specification of what has been seen by bankers' budgets, or a bookkeeping operation. The purpose is to bring the accounts into balance, or toward balance, by adjusting collections to a hoped-for expenditure.

No attempt is made to use monetary policy as a means of bringing about restoration of values, prices, wages and employment. It is a bookkeeping operation, for the reason—why, the Minister knows as well as anyone else—that there would be small chance of getting a re-constructive move through the present entrenched traditionalism of the present House of Commons, and no chance whatever of getting it through the present House of Commons.

For the time the procedure is to be kept within the strict limits of Sound Money usage. Nothing is proposed which would be liquidating the debt in the only way it can be liquidated, and freeing the public of the burden of interest charges which consume 30 per cent of the tax collections. For the time being, "use of the public credit in the public good" we shall have to wait until a later date.

planting or other gardening or horticultural operations, but, before it is sown, and whether it feels like it or not, spring is here, or what will have to pass for spring in the present year. If planting is to be done this year, it must be done now.

May has arrived, the birds are back, and the grass is turning. It is time to clean up the back yard, rake off the lawn, attend to the fruiting and pruning. It is time to plant some trees and shrubs. They cost little, grow fast, last a long time, and add to the beauty of the home surroundings, nothing else can.

Every Canadian boy and girl should plant a tree. Every Alberta boy and girl should plant one tree every year for several years. We need them, both for their beauty and their use.

INTEREST FOR THE TAXPAYER

Commendation is due to the present city council for having admitted—what former councils refused to admit—that taxpayer money loaned to the city is deserving of the same return as has to be paid on bank money borrowed by the city.

The taxpayer who pays the whole of his taxes—or any part in excess of the instalment due—may not be allowed interest on the excess payment at 4 1/2 per cent.

As the interest is calculated at the following due dates, the interest amounts to only a fraction of what a bank would charge on the loan. But the important point is the recognition that tax-money paid in advance is a loan to the city.

On this basis it should be possible for next year's council to work out a system of monthly payments and to make up a chart showing the taxpayer in dollars and cents exactly how much he can save in the course of the year by using the monthly instalment method. When able to do so there is no room for complaint. The taxpayer would respond, for the same reason that he pays his electric light and water bill in time to get the discount.

The Passing Show

By J. S. COWPER

I'm indebted to W. H. Alexander—presumably the professor of logic and logician—for correcting a bit of faulty reasoning I perpetrated a few days ago.

Discussing the lamentable spectacle of Italian might triumphing over Ethiopian right while the great nations squabble at Geneva, I wrote that the world is a vast market place, and the most vital commodity in mechanized warfare—had been proved to be the human element. States refuse to prohibit exports of it to Italy.

Mr. Alexander points out that the Anglo-Italian Company has been the chief source of Italy's oil supply. In fact, the British have been willing to interfere with Standard Oil shipments to its Italian subsidiary.

I confess the reasoning isn't as sound as it might be. Britain might have built up a moral case for United States opinion had she banned oil shipments from her own nationals and placed the blame for the continued slaughter in Ethiopia on the doorstep of United States.

The hallowed regard for profits which places profit-making above all humane and moral considerations is typical of big business in every Christian land.

Yet I mustn't be too sweeping. I do know of one instance where British people placed principles of religion before gain.

It must be nearly thirty years ago. It was before the G.T.P. was built down the Skeena river. Missionaries were working among the Indian tribes that centred on Hazelton. Catholic fathers were at work among the Babine; the Methodist church was at work among the missionary work in the adjoining valley where the Kikpio Indians dwelled.

An intelligent, devoted half-breed missionary named David had been working among the Kikpio Indians. His father had been a Hudson Bay employee and his mother a Timpanian. His mother died when he was a few weeks old. Exercising the tribal claim, two canoes of Timpanians paddled 300 miles south to Vancouver Island, crossing Queen Charlotte and Mullan's sounds in the process.

The child and paddled back 300 miles to what is now known as Port Simpson. David, however, remained in the west, and was with him when he saw the first of Father Duncan, a Jesuit, and when he saw two slaves from Alaska were killed.

"I thought then," he said, "that it must be a bad thing we were doing to make a good man cry."

When David, full of the white man's education, and with a natural flair for mechanics, arrived as a missionary among the Kikpio, he was astonished to find that with great fire around them the missionaries of the Indians were paying $20 a thousand to the Hudson Bay store at Hazelton for fur lumber.

He made a profound sensation. He went from Vancouver, installed the machinery, and the Kikpio men were able to produce their own lumber for about $8 a thousand.

This made a profound sensation. They were shocked to think that the company had been charging them $20 a thousand for what could be produced for $8 a thousand.

(In justice to the lumber trade I must to import the lumber from the south, and ship it up the Skeena on its big stern wheelers, warping its way through the dangerous rapids and falls. It would be dear lumber by the time it reached Hazelton.)

The same whispering of a railway to be built to the company decided to build a large addition to its warehouse. Large supplies were shipped in and a start made on the warehouse addition. For many months the lumber trade was in a state of confusion.

With the frame of the building well commenced, the stern-wheeler Port Simpson, loaded with lumber, came to the river bank. The building was unable to get under way. The lumber was left for the manager but ask the Kikpio Indians to supply the lumber to finish the building before the winter storms came.

David Pearce described to me the scene at the job—now to consider the S.O.S. of the Hudson Bay Company managers.

Some of the hot-bloods were for refusing the request. Others pointed out the chance to get even by demanding a large sum of money. As the now progressed the moderates were heard in a plea that the tribe fair price of $40 or $50 a thousand would be avengeful. Then discussion came round to their duty as Christians. Bibles were brought out and the sermon was given to the Sermon on the Mount and to the latter clause that says: "Do good to them that hate you and pray for them that despitefully use you and persecute you; that ye may be the children of your Father which is in heaven."

So they finished up by selling to the Hudson Bay Company the same price that they had refused to draw an indictment against the whole nation while they have the Kikpio Indians practicing Christianity.

I've another correction to make while I'm about it. On the assertion of a former public manager for the Territory, it is not true, I find, that Dr. Toxworth and his former real estate boss, R. E. Clements, were making $100 a week out of the $20 a month promise to the old folk of the United States.

Men like Dr. Townsend and Mr. Clements who take up old collections from people for plans to give them $200 a month, are always targets for slander. Far from wishing to tar on the old folk, evidence given before the Senate enquiry shows that Dr. Townsend stated that he "didn't give a damn for the old people."

Having been an out-of-work doctor expounding Dr. Townsend's "Divinely-inspired plan," the expenses of Mr. Clements were naturally heavy, including a de luxe Lincoln car, airplane travel and first class hotel bills. But we have his word for it that all he got in cash out of the old folks movement is a mere $77,000 odd and that he has received $215,000 in salaries and wages for domestic services, and necessary household bills for himself and family.

Overcoming That Tired Feeling

By DOCTOR FRANK MCCOY

I receive thousands of letters from discouraged people whose chief complaint is that they are tired. Either they feel tired all of the time, or else they tire quickly after a moderate amount of exertion. Some of these men are sleeping when they awaken and dread the day that lies before them—others are so tired at night that they can hardly drag themselves to bed and regard the effort of undressing as too much for them. Others are tired during the afternoon. Although constant weariness is only a symptom of such diseases, nevertheless it is true that chronic tiredness often precedes the development of one of the serious disorders such as anemia, diabetes or tuberculosis. A sensation of marked fatigue is a very common finding in all these cases and is also one of the characteristic symptoms of neurasthenia.

If you will question a patient who has had a "nervous breakdown" you will discover that he was tired over a long period of time before the actual breakdown occurred.

One who is bothered with feelings of weakness and weariness, who is often getting sick and those of you who are aware of being tired of the time should be every day, and it is typical of big business in every Christian land.

A Day in Canadian History — By FRED WILLIAMS

On this date in 1883 a boy was born at Charlottetown who was to be both a Canadian statesman and chief justice of Canada. Louis Henry Davies came of good stock, his father being the Hon. Benjamin Davies, a colonial judge, and his mother the daughter of a prominent family.

Called to the bar in his 21st year Mr. Davies soon found himself in public life. He was premier of the province in 1891 and after another three years was elected to the House of Commons. He was the father of the great party of the day.

Mr. Davies' chief service to both Canada and the Empire is his work as Minister of Marine and Fisheries in 1896 and as such saved Canada good service. The Manner And The Matter Of Australian Reading

—By R. T. ELLIOTT, K.C.

The illustrations for the above text are taken from one of the leaders in world journalism, the Australian (Wilson and Macdonald, proprietors), Melbourne, Australia.

In Western Canada, a writer has to gain the confidence and hold the interest of readers coming from many nationalities, and in many instances finding difficulty in the peculiarities of English expressions, so that the effort to translate the thought of the world into the language of the highway, and to be sympathetic and above all sincerely direct, rather than grammatically correct.

In Australia the writers do not seem to be held by their correct language limitation. The English is simple pure and technically accurate.

The word picture of the League of Nations, its reason for existing and its approach to the German problem, is an outstanding illustration:

"The League is not a court of law, but a political body existing to maintain peace by agreement. It is not so much what Germany has done in the Rhineland that counts as the manner in which she has done it. If she had notified the Powers of her intention to demand full sovereignty over her own territory the matter could have been calmly discussed. Instead she acted first. That is the German way, and the fact must be faced. Punishment would not necessarily prevent repetition of the offence, and even if it did retaliation is not part of the League code. The position is still difficult, but it is not dangerous."

An article on dictatorship is a classic; founded on Lord Acton's conclusion: "Power tends to corrupt, and absolute power corrupts absolutely." Elaborating this conclusion, brings expression of the following thoughts:

"Can you point to any man, in history, who has been given absolute power and who has managed to preserve his virtue of head and heart? Do you know of any dictator, in ancient or modern times, who has not become, sooner or later, and generally sooner, a truculent, megalomaniac? I know of none."

"By your leave, good sir, I shall still maintain that a man's first duty is to his own soul; not for selfish reasons, but because, in the long run, it is by preserving his own integrity that he can best serve the world. I maintain that a tree which has been poisoned at the roots will not produce leaves of healing of the nations. I maintain that a reformer's first duty is to reform himself; which being neglected, all his reforming will be to his own ruin. A man who has been given absolute power over the lives and destinies of a people may mean well, but there is a curse upon all that he does, so that, in the long run, he is seen to have done more harm than good, even excellent over his intentions may have seemed to himself and others."

"Democracy may have many weaknesses; we all know something of its defects, and we all have our own ideas of in what it might be improved. But democracy has the seeds of life in it; it is the seed of the future. It is not as if dictatorship business were a new experiment in human government; a great many people speak as if it were, but they must be people who have never opened a history book and read over again, in the laboratory of the world, the thing has been tried—and tried again; we go on to go on for ever, we learn nothing from our failures." Over and over again it has been proved that autocratic power corrupts the autocrat and corrupts the nation."

The destruction of the values of all fixed assets in Canada; the loss of thousands upon thousands of homes by tax sales and foreclosures; the collapse of wage scales and salary standards; the creation of a whole generation of young Canadians without opportunity; a way is usually referred to as the dreadful price paid in Canada for turning over control of commerce and currency to an autocracy which was only designed after five months of study. Unemployment is solely due to intentionally keeping money away from the members of the public. The new government in Ottawa has been only designed after five months of study, stubbornly refusing to end unemployment by making money available for use on the security of normal Canadian valuations.

HERE'S LATEST BRAIN TRUST

More than 8,000 registration forms will be distributed by the Canadian Legion, R.C.M.C., Edmonton branch, immediately following the opening of the Legion Day celebration and "pilgrimage" to be held May 17 and 18. It was decided at an executive meeting Friday night.

A covering letter describing the complete program and its importance to legion members, it is mailed to legion members, members, their wives and families, will attend the "pilgrimage" celebration which is being held in conjunction with the Edmonton Exhibition.

A flat rate of $10 will cover all expenses while in Edmonton for visitors, exclusive of personal spending money. July 11 to 14 is the day for registration.

Indications are that hotel accommodation will be inadequate during the celebration and private homes will have to be used to billeting visitors. Possibility of a tent city, on the grounds of the Grand Depot Park or some other suitable location is under discussion.

Many of the out of town members have indicated a preference to be under canvas and in the event of inadequate accommodation in hotels and houses it is likely the tent city plan will be adopted.

The Exhibition Board has agreed to make Friday, July 17, Legion Day at the Edmonton Exhibition, a special military program will be arranged for the grand rally.

Because of the out of town members is already remarkable, W. H. McLeod, president of the Edmonton branch, said, "We are very glad to have you here, and we are sure you will have a very successful trip."

Bob Gordon, a Sedgewick visitor in Edmonton, said, "We are very glad to have you here, and we are sure you will have a very successful trip."

Sedgewick branch are 100 per cent behind the idea and the Edmonton executive can count on 10 or 12 members from that town.

MAN ACCUSED OF TORTURING, SLAYING WIFE

R. S. James Denies He Forced Spouse's Foot Into Box of Rattlesnakes

LOS ANGELES, May 4.—District Attorney Burton Fitts announced Sunday that Robert S. James, accused of torturing his fifth wife with rattlesnakes and drowning her, buried the same charges back at his accuser, Chas. Hope.

Saturday night the prosecutor said, James confessed he drowned 28-year-old Mary Bush James and left her body in a fish pond to rot. He said he forced her foot into a box of rattlesnakes in an effort to kill her with their poison.

In a new statement Sunday, Fitts said, the oft-murdered barber named Hope, a 37-year-old cafe worker and ex-sailor, as the actual killer and charged Hope perjured himself by saying the charges against James were untrue.

"All you have to do is throw them in bed with her, the latest James statement, quoted Hope as saying after he brought a box of the poisonous insects to the home.

FOUND IN FISH POND

Mr. James was found in the fish pond of her Los Angeles home. A coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental drowning, with a possibility admitted that a string of some kind on the woman's leg might have been a contributory cause of death.

James' statement taken yesterday after Hope had repeated his charges that James drowned his wife in the bathtub after forcing her bare foot into a box filled with snakes, encompassed two other "death plots" for which the barber charged Hope was responsible.

WIFE WAS SICK

"My wife was sick at this time," James statement said. "Hope took me in and he said she was going to die anyway, why don't you kill her? I told him I couldn't do it. He said, 'Go on!'"

To Hope's story that James strangled his wife with a table for the "snake torture," James countered that Hope had misrepresented himself to him. He was a medical student, that he persuaded her to lie on the table and be strapped with a belt and he performed an illegal operation on her. James said he left the house at this time, returning later to find Hope drunk and Mr. James in bed.

SHADE HIT THREE TIMES

Hope said he put her foot in the box with the snake and it bit her three times. James statement continued.

James charged the plot to kill Mr. James was conceived by both Hope and himself to collect on her double indemnity insurance policy and that Hope was to receive half the insurance.

"Hope, in James' presence, denied the barber's story."

MAN DROWNS IN CESSPOOL

CONSONET, May 4.—Walter Spencer, aged 45, lost his life about 11 o'clock Sunday morning in a cesspool on Royal Bank property. He was employed as janitor and was attempting to throw a frozen pipe. The cesspool was about 18 feet deep and contained about seven feet of water. A ladder, about ten feet in length was let down with a rope reaching from its top to the top of the well.

Spencer had built a fire around a steel barrel partly filled with water and equipped with a hose so as to direct steam on the frozen pipe. He went down with the rope to the ladder but soon felt himself being overcome with gas and attempted to climb back. He succeeded in getting almost to the top, so close in fact that his son, Walter Junior, was 17, got hold of one arm, but could not hold him and he fell into the pit.

Help quickly arrived and with a cable and hook he pulled the body out in fifteen minutes. He leaves a wife and fourteen children ranging from 17 years to three months.

WEST CLERGY HARDEST HIT BISHOP SAYS

Rt. Rev. A. E. Burgett, Edmonton, Delivers Sermon

In Verduin, Que.

VERDUIN, Que., May 4.—An urgent appeal for payment of appropriations to the Missionary Society of the Church of England in Canada, by eastern delegates was made by Rt. Rev. A. E. Burgett, Bishop of Edmonton, in a sermon last night at the Church of St. John The Divine.

The clergy in Western Canada suffered distress because a drop in appropriations throughout Canada did not allow grants to be paid in full, said Bishop Burgett. Families of the clergy met difficulties through lack of funds and a resultant lack of food and clothing.

He said salaries of the clergy in Western Canada ranged between $60 and $70 a month. In northern Saskatchewan salaries averaged $80 a month while the southern Saskatchewan diocese averaged $100. Of the 100 clergymen in the diocese, 70 were in the north and 30 in the south. The 100 clergymen were forced to do much travelling with a monthly income in some cases below $30 a month, he said.

DEBATE WILL BE OPENED TUESDAY BY R. B. BENNETT

Today the House will take up estimates. Railway legislation will be the chief subject of debate.

Mr. Bennett in particular was busy preparing the estimate which, as opposing financial critic, he will deliver Tuesday afternoon.

The budget and the reaction to it and tariff changes is expected to have predominated all other political considerations and will continue to be the subject of debate. (Reuter's General.) It is felt that the debate will not be a long one, and that Parliament will conclude the session before the end of June.

Mr. Bennett in particular was busy preparing the estimate which, as opposing financial critic, he will deliver Tuesday afternoon.

INCREASE REVENUE

Mr. Dunning, presenting the second budget of his political career, in the assembly of the House, said that he would bring down six new revenue measures to increase the income tax which he hopes to increase the revenue by $200,000,000 and lowered the customs tariff rates on 104 items while estimating a deficit for the current fiscal year of less than $100,000,000. The deficit for the last fiscal year was $122,000,000, including all expenditures, ordinary and emergency.

Of outstanding importance in the budget changes was the increase in sales tax from six to eight per cent. and a reduction in duties on British goods and artificial silk and reductions in the intermediate rate on goods manufactured from home materials, reduction from 12½ per cent. to 7½ per cent. on raw cotton, on farm implements and re-arrangement of the duties and taxes on motor cars.

AFFECT CORPORATIONS

Changes in the income tax, designed to increase revenue by $6,000,000, will affect only corporations, individual income taxes remaining undisturbed. Encouragement to metalliferous mining was shown by exemption from income tax for seven years from date production starts. No new mines ready to start, into production between 1929 and 1930.

Negotiations with the provinces for new relief agreements by one of the chief issues in government circles these days. Premier McPherson of Ontario, and a number of his ministers, conferred with the government last week and it is understood they reached the basis of an agreement which will be drawn up this week. Other provinces also will hold conferences with the government.

Mr. Van Allen, in a speech from the House, said that the C.C.F. platform of 1935, which he had been discussing by Mr. Ashcroft, was a platform of the C.C.F. platform with its use of force for land and its nationalization of all institutions, is merely a "tag-along" campaign.
